The Diversity Leadership Symposium at The Ohio State University was created to provide an inter departmental professional development event in the area of inter-cultural competence for higher education professionals and college students. It was designed with an emphasis on teaching real-life, usable skills, and understanding for the purpose of creating welcoming and inclusive environments.

Objectives for the 2013 Symposium are to:

- Identify and define what cultural competence is and how it can be used to foster or enhance leadership
- Cultivate and practice the skills needed to develop a culturally competent environment.
- Creating a safe space for authentic dialogue within, across, and between groups.
